We're going to look through a few math websites. These sites all provide math help for students. We'll spend about ten minutes looking at each site and then answer the questions below for each site.

If you would normally browse the web with Kurzweil, please open it now, or any time during this evaluation.

1. What are your immediate impressions of this website?

2. Do you think this site gives accurate information about math?

3. Does the site give clear instructions?

4. Do you get what you expect when you click on things?

5. Do you think it's easy to tell where you are in the site?

6. Do you like this website?

7. What do you like about this site?
